

Chef for a Day

About Chef Michael Rork

Chef Michael Rork currently lives in St. Michaels, Maryland where he is chef-owner of Town Dock Restaurant. The restaurant features regional seafood and offers a full menu of fine food in a casual, waterfront setting. Chef Rork received the 2000 Critic's Choice award from Chesapeake Life Magazine. Numerous local and national awards support the customers quoted in the 2005 Zagat Survey: "park your yacht almost at your table and enjoy a waterfront boat show" - "a superior location for wonderful views of St. Michael's harbor as you dine."

Before moving to St. Michaels, Chef Rork was Executive Chef at Harbor Court Hotel in Baltimore, Maryland for eight years. During his tenure he received numerous awards including the Mobil Four-Star Conde Nast Traveler "Top 50 Restaurants" in the United States; Zagat Guide "Best American Restaurant" in 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993 and 1994; and the DiRosa Award in 1992 and 1993. The Central Maryland Chef's and Cook's Association named Chef Rork "Chef of the Year" in 1991.
